V. Extract of a Letter from Mr. de Vallemont, &c. concerning a ſmall Egg being found within an ordinary one, taken from the Journal des Savans of the 7th of Jan. 1696.

IN the Journal des Scavans of the 7th of Jan. 1696. is an account of a ſmall Egg of about 7 Lines from end to end, and $4\frac{1}{2}$ of bigneſs, which was included in a Hens Egg, which appeared to have nothing extraordinary on its outſide, and which they were breaking to make an Ommelette of. The ſmall Egg-ſhell was faſtened to the ſhell of the greater by one of its Extremities.

Several Inſtances of the like nature are extant in Natural Hiſtorians.

London: Printed for Sam. Smith, and Benj. Wallford, Printers to the Royal Society, at the Princes Arms in St. Paul's Church-Yard. 1697.